From the Desk of Rabbi Bruce Benson

February is a month with so much living inside of it, it's easy to get started.

We've just started the book of Exodus. The apex story of the Israelites as they travel and eventually become the Jews. We morph from a people who know the challenge of being repressed (what eventually we called "slavery"), of being held back from moving forward with our dreams and aspirations. It took Moses and an act of enormous faith to move our people, and the world, ahead into an age wherein a singular God is our partner, our challenger, our provider and the deliverer of truth and vision for us.

It is free will that clearly spells out the story of Exodus, choosing to follow the dictates of God by making a choice. Let us choose to raise TBEI up, to increase our numbers, to be more supportive to our community and bringing more to our doors and greeting them with our vision, our friendship and our hands reaching out.

This month we have a Tu B'shevat seder which will take place after Shabbat morning services February 8. If you have never attended one, read inside for details and join us during our Oneg after the service and be there as we add the Tu B'shevat seder to our celebration.

All organizations need to find additional ways to create financial strength. We have an extraordinary opportunity to do that AND enjoy an extraordinary night of music.

SATURDAY FEBRUARY 22, outstanding LAS VEGAS performer JULIE BUDD will be at the Lyric theater to help us by performing her Las Vegas show...I encourage you to go onto YouTube.com and type in: JULIE BUDD to see an exquisite performer in action. Come - bring a friend - enjoy a wonderful show!!

See a performer perform songs from the American Songbook as well as so many songs you know. Julie has opened during her storied career for the likes of Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., George Burns and many others.

This is the real deal!! Don't miss this double opportunity !!

A community will only be as strong as its weakest supporter. Imagine a Saint Lucie county without Temple Beth El Israel - well, try hard - as it won't happen while we are here. We won't allow it to be so. It is by your support of programs, large and small. Come and sustain the major Jewish presence in the county. It will attract those who need a synagogue as part of their Jewish lives. Let us strive to bring one new member each. Just one!! Imagine where that will take us.

Watch for information on many exciting events that will be taking place in the months of February and March....

Looking forward to seeing you here!!

Rabbi B

The President's Communication Corner .....

If laughter is the best medicine, then those who attended the show with Rabbi & Comedian Bob Alper went home feeling a lot better! He provided 90 minutes of entertainment filled with jokes and hilarious stories. People laughed, smiled, and walked out feeling good. Everything seemed so upbeat and positive.

Let's keep that momentum going. Let's enjoy more entertaining afternoons/evenings together at the Meal and a Movie, Sisterhood Mah Jongg/Card Party & Luncheon, Julie Budd Concert, Sisterhood & Brotherhood Dinner Show, and Trivia Night, to name just some of the planned events.

Check the Shofar, our website, the flyers in the temple, or call the office for details. Then purchase your tickets and join us for a great time!

Our Monthly TBEI Library Book Review.....by Sheilah Korinow

Golda Meir Speaks Out, edited by Marie Syrkin, is a book which shows the various sides of Golda Meir through her statements, which makes it a "kind of oral autobiography in which Mrs. Meir's extraordinary personality is expressed in her own words." The book covers a lifetime, not just her tenure in government jobs. She was always a "fighter", in many ways - fighting against the swamps of her kibbutz as well as against Israel's external foes.

The book contains moving statements she has made, about one crisis or another in Israel's struggle for survival, and about analyzing various social problems. The editor wrote: "They reflect her unaffected good sense and human sympathy in the most personal sense." The editor goes on to describe Mrs. Meir's "simplicity of style" which "corresponds to the clarity with which she perceives the essentials of a problem." She has the "ability to disengage the kernel of truth from the husk of spurious complexities," which seems to be a "refreshing gift in the midst of diplomatic double-talk." Couldn't we use someone like that today? She was, the editor states, "a formidable antagonist". Come sit and read her words, and gain an understanding about why she became an important figure of her time.

There are 26 chapters, plus an additional section, each one containing a particular topic - in interviews, written articles, speeches, statements, discussions, and even testimony at a trial. Let's take a look at some of what the book contains. I'll tell you the names of some of the chapters, and whether it is a speech, statement, discussion, etc.). I'll include a short quote from the text which seems to define what kind of person she was.

Chapter 1 - "My Beginnings" - gives a good background in Kiev in the Pale of Settlement. This chapter contains a radio interview given in Israel in 1969, where Mrs. Meir talks about her relatives. Then her life in America is described, as well as her settlement in Israel. About her parents she says: "To what extent did Father and Mother make me what I am? ... From my Father I got, let us say, my obstinacy. From my Mother I got optimism."

Chapter 3 - "Women's Lib" - is an article written in 1930. It delves into the pros and cons of a woman who works as one who stays at home. She really discusses this thoroughly and ends with the following: "This eternal division, this double pull, this alternating feeling of unfilled duty - today toward her family, the next day toward her work - this is the burden of a working mother." This is quite an interesting and meaningful chapter.

Chapter 8 - "In the Midst of Battle:1948" - is a speech before the Council of Jewish Federation in Chicago. Mrs. Meir came there to help raise funds due to the lack of weapons and Arab attacks. Even Ben Gurion said about the rest of her mission: "Someday when history will be written, it will be said that there was a Jewish woman who got the money which made the state possible," Her speech was emotional - "Rifles and machine guns without spirit are not worth very much, but spirit without arms can in time be broken with the body." It is worth reading this speech.

Chapter 13 - "A Solemn Appeal to the Arabs" - This was when Mrs. Meir, in front of the General Assembly in 1957, surprised everyone by abandoning the prepared text and made a spontaneous appeal to the Arabs. She finished by saying: "It is our profoundest hope that the coming period may make a decisive step in this regard, to the inestimable benefit of all the people of the Middle East and perhaps the entire world."

Chapter 15 - "The Trial of Eichmann" - Here we have a statement at the Security Council, when Mrs. Meir answers "the charges brought by the Argentine government - 1960" You will read testimonies given at the trial, and Mrs. Meir's final statement which asks: "Did the threat to peace lie in Eichman at large, Eichmann unpunished, Eichmann to spread the poison of his twisted soul to a new generation?" This is another informative and emotional speech. She ends with: "We are driven by the memory of the past, the responsibility for the future, and by the desire to live up to a sense of 'chosenness' - not because we are better than others, but because we dream of doing better in building a society in Israel which will be a good society on concepts of justice and equality."

There are many chapters that I have not mentioned, but topics discussed in them include: kibbutz life, Jewish workers and their grievances, the Exodus - 1947, discussion of the widening economic gap between veteran settlers and newcomers, the Israeli action in Sinai and its withdrawal, a solution of the Arab refugee problem, Israel's search for peace, and poverty in Israel. Reading these speeches and statements will give you much more knowledge about Golda Meir than most of you already have. I don't mean this to be an insult, but this book really gives the reader a look at her that no other book can. They are her words, spoken in a way that gives us more insight into what type of woman she was, and how much she has contributed to her country, to the Jewish People, and to the world.

At the end of the book, there is a group of topics Mrs. Meir speaks about in various interviews: "On Being a Woman", "On Zionism", and "On Peace", in which she states: "I want my grandchildren to live in an Israel that is part and parcel of this entire area, but I don't want them to live in an Israel that will always be complimented as the only democratic state here, the only developed state. I want Israel to be a part of a highly developed culturally advanced Middle East with much cooperation between its peoples. Each people maintaining its individual characteristics and yet a region that lives together. Above all, I hope that Israel will become the ideal, just society of which we dream." -1970 What insight she had!

If you would like to check out this book, look for it in the third section of shelves on the left as you enter the library. It is on the 4th shelf of that section with a small wooden box next to it. Remove a slip from the box, fill it out and place the slip back in the box, and the book is yours to take home. When you return it, just leave it on the shelf where you originally found it. One word of caution. Please be gentle with this book. It has seen much use in the past, so it is not in the greatest of conditions. However, what it holds is a treasure!

Food for thought.....

*When the weather suits you not.....try smiling
When your coffee isn't hot.....try smiling
When your neighbors don't do it right...or your relatives all fight, sure it's hard, but then you might.....try smiling
Doesn't change these things of course, just smiling
But it cannot make them worse, just smiling
And it seems to help your case, brightens up a gloomy place, then, it sort of rests your face,*
