From the Desk of Rabbi Bruce Benson

Today - the Hebrew word for "thanks".

An easy word to throw around, without much thought. But what is true thankfulness? Is it seeing what your life contains and saying thanks to those around you who helped create that thankful space? Do we thank God for the strength to achieve and have the needed sight to find the way to that end goal?

I once spent several months asking people of many different nationalities, jobs, lifestyles if they were "happy" with how their lives were going. I still ask people in different professions a similar question: "Is it what you hoped it would be - this job you have?" Are you happy and does that happiness translate into thankful?

Our tradition teaches many answers. Many of our ancestors had deeply held and connected relationships with their (and subsequently, our) God. Being chosen for a task, while almost never easy, was filled with honor and commitment. Moses only reticently went to Pharaoh and, even then, only after begging God NOT to send him! Far too many of our teachers were, and are, far too overwhelmed by living as we have chosen, as God's frontline, as the receivers of Torah, as the "Chosen Ones" to consider all that we have to be thankful for. It's true that anti-semitism has always been the shadow that has followed us where ever we have lived. We are usually welcomed when we are fairly quiet in our Jewish heritage.

I am thankful for so many things I don't speak of every day. During this month, when we are notified, as Americans, that November 25 is THE day to give thanks, that there are 364 other days that matter as well.

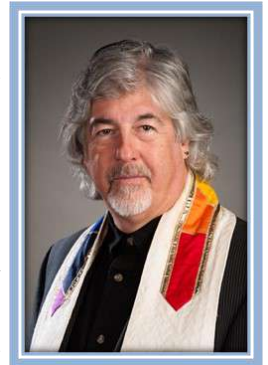

Our ancestors shouldered the burden of living in a "right way" and were thankful for the pressure that opportunity brings. Let us do the same. There are many ways to do that... Abraham argued with God, Lot simply said "OK" and complied with God's requests.

Perhaps those requests were the answer to humanity's quest to be. Right, do it right, and look for other chances to be the people we imagine ourselves to be.

May we all be thankful every day and use November 25 as only a reminder that there are 364 more to go as we continue to carry that weight.

Enjoy your repast, give thanks not only for one meal, but for our lives. Add 1 small mitzvah a day, or if that's too many - 1 a week will be great. Let's make this the year of Mitzvah madness and show our incredible gratitude for what we have, and more importantly, who we have in our lives. Today (thanks) Rabbah (great or many)

Rabbi B.

The President's Message.....

We're all looking forward to a time when we can get back to walking into the Temple without a mask and being able to sit next to each other without worrying about either getting a virus or spreading one.

We are also looking forward to having fundraising events and at a recent meeting we began planning for exactly that. Sisterhood, Brotherhood, and Temple functions are being organized and we are hopeful that in the not-too-distant future we can realize this.

Thanksgiving is a time when we give thanks for all we have, for family and friends, for our freedom and for our health. I want to express how thankful I am to all of our members that have made such generous donations to our Temple in answer to the appeal for help; and just as important to everyone that volunteers their time, in order to keep our Temple running smoothly. You are all truly appreciated.

Our semi-annual Congregation Meeting will be on Saturday night, November 20th at 5 p.m. We will have dinner prior to the meeting which will begin at 6 p.m. Further information will be emailed shortly. Please make every effort to attend as a quorum is necessary.

Stay healthy and stay safe....

This month, we feature a 1996 "joint issue" from Israel and the United States that celebrates Hanukkah. The holiday commemorates the victory of the Maccabees, a family of Jewish patriots, over Greek-Syrian oppressors in 164 B.C.E. This year, Hanukkah begins at sundown on Sunday, November 28, and ends at nightfall on Monday, December 6 (Kislev 25-Tevet 2, 5782).

Each Hanukkah, we light candles for eight days, beginning on the first evening, adding one light each night on the hanukkiah, the nine-branch Hanukkah menorah (the ninth candle, the shammes, is used to light the other eight). In purifying the Temple in Jerusalem, after it had been liberated by the Maccabees, the priests found just one night's worth of oil for the only menorah that had not been rendered impure by the Greeks. But the oil lasted for eight days and nights -- the miracle of Hanukkah! The lighting of the Hanukkah candles today represents a victory of light over darkness, of bravery of the few against the many, and the struggles for freedom of faith and national liberty of a people in their own homeland.

The two stamps, which feature nine colorful Hanukkah candles, have some philatelic significance. They were the first stamps to be jointly issued by Israel and the United States; the Israeli stamp was the country's first self-adhesive issue; and the U.S. stamp was the first to recognize a Jewish holiday. In creating the artwork, American graphic designer Hannah Smotrich paid special attention to the colors "to emphasize the upbeat nature of a playful, joyous holiday." The tab at the bottom of the Israeli stamp also depicts three sides of a dreidel and the phrase, in Hebrew, "a great miracle happened here."

This year marks the 25th anniversary of America's first Hanukkah stamp. There have been seven succeeding designs since 1996; the most recent stamp, issued last year, featured a girl and a boy lighting a hanukkiah.

Briana Zeff will become a Bat Mitzvah on November 13, 2021. She is currently an 8th grade student at St Lucie West K-8. Briana is a wonderful, dedicated and driven young woman with a passion for animals and helping others. She is an outstanding big sister to her brother Ethan. Briana is an avid horseback rider and volleyball player. She plays on her school volleyball team. Briana's love of horses drove her to spend this past summer volunteering every day to teach younger children how to ride and properly care for horses. Briana has been working very hard to prepare for her Bat Mitzvah in spite of the challenges of the pandemic. She and her family are thrilled to share this special day with their temple, community, and friends.

WE ARE SO PROUD OF OUR OHEL MOED STUDENTS

Jack Argenziano will become a Bar Mitzvah on Nov 20, 2021. He is an 8th grade student at Saint Lucie West K-8 where he is in all advanced classes. Jack is also a member of the National Junior Honor society. Jack loves playing soccer and plays for the Port Saint Lucie Hurricanes. He is a huge animal lover and recently started volunteering with the Humane society taking care of some of the animals.

Our Monthly TBEI Library Book Review.....by Sheilah Korinow

The Book of Psalms holds much meaning for many individuals – myself included. Take a Bible, sit down and turn to them. You will find they bring you comfort, hope and solace - all that make up spiritual healing. Our library has a book titled Healing of Soul, Healing of Body, edited by Rabbi Simka Y. Weintraub, CSW. This book is intended to help those people struggling with illness or helping someone who is ill. It is a book meant to provide the reader with some sort of "spiritual healing". Within its pages, you will find 10 of the 150 psalms which were designated by Rabbi Nachman of Breslov as "the healing psalms". How welcome something like this is in a world that suffers both physically and mentally in the age of Covid -19 and other events that test our sanity! These are the poems of "pain and praise, of humility and hope".

This book begins with a section - "How to Use This Book", made up of suggestions of how to approach these 10 Psalms. It discusses the real difficulty of translating them and why this happens. After all, there are so many words, phrases, and usages that are "downright obscure if not impossible to grasp."

Next there is an Introduction which you should read. Included in it are things such as:

- Who was Rabbi Nachman of Breslov?
- The Ten Kinds of Song: Prayer as Dialogue - How should we recite these Psalms? - Mere recitation is not enough. To answer this question, ten spiritual leaders from different denominations, personalities, and backgrounds shared their "bridge" to the Psalms. Their approaches are different. They offer introductions, commentaries, and personal statements - all to discuss how to seek meaning and healing from the Psalms (each of their backgrounds are found in the back of the book, pp. 105-107). Guidance for your reading of this book is in the section "How to Use This Book. Some of its topics are:

- What is Tikkun?
- The Ten Psalms as a Unit - To explain this, the author lists all of the healing Psalms and what each offers. For example, the beautiful Psalm 42 stresses how we yearn for God, and Psalm 41 speaks about sickness and its accompanying suffering endured by many. Psalm 150 is described as; "a paean and musical symphony of praises."
- Tzedakah: Elevating the Material as Part of the Tikkun - where the reader realizes that those that are ill can still reach out to others in need, providing concern. For example, those that were or are ill can repair the world with such things as volunteering in shelters or in fundraisers for medical research. Doing these activities then brings new meaning to their own lives.

The book concentrates on one Psalm per chapter. You may read the Psalm in Hebrew located at the top of every page. On the top of the page on the right, you will find the Psalm's translation. On the bottom of the page are the author's remarks. The chapters are short, but long enough to convey important ideas. To see the different ways each of the writers deals with his or her Psalm is interesting, and the reader is sure to end each chapter with emotions quite high.

At the conclusion of the book, there is a helpful list of suggested reading. This includes not only books about the Psalms, but sources including resources related to Jewish Spiritual Healing in times of illness, and even books to further explore the life, stories, and teachings of Rabbi Nachman of Breslov.

To conclude, I felt I had to include a poem submitted by Rabbi Sheldon Zimmerman, a former president of Hebrew Union College -Jewish Institute of Religion. It should help all of you during this stressful time period, and hopefully will prepare you to contemplate reading this book.

A PRAYER FOR PRAYER

Read the entire column on your left first, followed by the column on your right*

O My God

In your oneness, I find healing.

My soul's companion

In the promise of Your love, I am soothed.

My heart's precious friend

In Your wholeness, I too can become whole again.

I turn to You

Please listen to my call-

I need to close out the noise

help me find the words

To rise above the noise

help me find the strength within

The noise that interrupts-

help me shape my mouth, my voice, my heart

The noise that separates-

so that I can direct my spirit and find You in prayer

The noise that isolates.

In words only my heart can speak

I need to hear You again.

In songs only my soul can sing

Lifting my eyes and heart to You.

In the silence of my innermost being,
In the fragments of my yearned-for wholeness
I hear whispers of Your presence-
Echoes of the past when You were with me
When I felt Your nearness
When together we walked-
When You held me close, embraced me in Your love,
laughed with me in my joy.
I yearn to hear You again.

"Adonai S'fatai Tiftach* - open my lips, precious God so that I can speak with You again.
